Many times it is the little things that make college life interesting. From soap operas to ordering pizzas, being in college definitely has its adventures.
Administration. ..... 92The administrators, or those who work "9 to 5," often havemore of an effect on student life than the students realize.The administration at Meredith has many roles and re-sponsibilities.
Academics ..... 108There are fifteen different departments that contribute tothe well-rounded liberal arts education of Meredith stu-dents.

Jlubs & Organizations ..... 124

Students at Meredith are often criticized for seeming to be apathetic. But with over 50 clubs and organizations on campus, students have many ways to get involved.
Whether it is through an interest club, student government, publications, honor societies, or a talent group, Meredith student show their dedication to being involved.

Seasons In The Sun And Rain And Cold And ...

There are advantages as well as disadvantages to living in the South. Within that geographic area, residents experience all four distinct seasons. They can feel crisp fall days, cold winter days, warm spring days, and hot summer days.

Meredith is no exception to the rest of the South. From the early days of fall, Meredith students enjoy the beauty of the turning of the leaves. With a campus abundant with trees, the colors of fall are everywhere! Then wintertime approaches with cold temperatures. This winter brought only a small amount of snow (2-3 inches), but its presence made winter seem more real. Winter did not last long as warm temperatures appeared before Spring Break. The pink blossoms of the azaleas at the Lake assured us that spring was here. As spring days wore on, the sun gave us a warm hint that summer was quickly approaching, and the school year would end very soon.

Just as there is beauty in every season at Meredith, there is enjoyment in every season. A brisk autumn walk to check the mail is a must for every student. Although the snowfall this year was not large, students grabbed trays from the cafeteria and headed down to the Lake for traying. Spring brought out the joggers who were trying to get ready for "bikini" weather. Summer definitely began early, in March, as the beaches around Meredith became crowded with many sunbathers.

Mollie McLeod and Julie Hennis think that fall is a great time to watch volleyball.

Carolers bundle up warmly as they prepare to meet a cold December night.

The Lake vividly reminds all that spring is one of the most colorful seasons at Meredith.

Sunbathing students find the breezeway the best spot for maximum rays.

Trees in the Courtyard are a sure sign of tall.

Students even bring coolers for an afternoon in the sun.

Cornhuskin' is a favorite tradition of every student.

The Dolls are an obvious fashion indicator for each class.

The Bathtub Ring with Zeke, Ethel Sue, Rufus, and Ralph is a sixteen year old tradition of the Phi Society.

Although it means getting up at 5:00 a.m. on a Saturday morning, students still enjoy daisy hunting for Class Day.

The Traditions Of Meredith College*

Who day and night is carrying on at Meredith what was once begun many years ago? Who learns each year many special customs that become to us so dear? The Meredith Angels!

Who has big sisters, candielight communion, dolls up in the showcase, Play Day in the spring? The angels of Meredith love all our traditions, happiness and joy they ...

Bring me a daisy to finish the chain. Let's find the crook. Hey, our class rings just came! We have big sisters for helping us through. And we paint the Beehive, too.

Traditions live on in our hearts. As angels we all see from the start that traditions left from the past make Meredith unity last and last.
Because I am an Angel, I can always be a part of all the Mereditt, traditions: going to the dance in the spring, lying out by the Lake! Christmas dinner with turkey, ham and dressing, always is a very special treat. Toys for tots and Secret Santas are special, too. We know that in a few years we'll be through.
Before we leave we see the faculty play, and Alice in Wonderland is great! We think that our faculty is first rate! Last will and testament is given by the seniors just before they go with bonfires, caps and gowns, and Graduation ...
Days here at Meredith are passing. Look back at all that we've been through. We've shared so many things together - old and new.
All the traditions that we've learned here will carry on as others come, but nothing could ever replace these years.

Those before us, those behind us, and those who are here have all given and taken memories of Meredith so dear. Our hearts are knit as one. Learning and striving together, we carry traditions as we go.

Meredith: The View From Above

By An Angel

The campus of Meredith is our special haven. This "Angel Farm" encircles us in our own heavenly world for four years. Visitors to Meredith frequently remark about the beauty of this paradise. As a matter of fact, the campus itself sometimes attracts potential Angels to apply for admission.
The campus is a changing place. Plans for a chapel were finalized this year. Construction on the chapel to be named for Seby Jones should begin soon. Another addition to the campus was proposed this year. It is a classroom building for the Business and Math Departments, named for the late Shearon Harris.

Specific locations have special meanings to the Angels who pass through the Meredith gates. The courtyard is often the site of picnics, as well as the scene of Cornhuskin' water battles. The Lake and Mclver Ampitheater are sites for Class Day and Graduation Exercises, if the weather is right. The old Beehive serves as a canvas on which seniors leave their remembrances. Cate Center, the most modern building on campus, is the place Angles visit to check their mailboxes. Many times Angels can be caught staring into Shaw Fountain while waiting for a pizza to arrive or even a date. Many Angels find themselves meeting Carlyle quite regularly; however, Carlyle isn't a NCSU Wolfpacker. The Angels are actually putting in a lot of hours at the Carlyle Campbell Library. Seniors and juniors, who have car priviledges, know "The Pit" well. This parking lot is always a last resort.

Besides all of the campus locations with which each Angel can identify, many Angels have their own special place to enjoy. Whether it is a place to sit and take a breath of a favorite study spot, Angels have enjoyed the heavenly creation which surrounds them everyday.

A group of happy faces waits to go caroling.

No one is quite sure what Judy Andrews' expression really means.

Junior Adriane Thomas says that she has more FUN at Spring Fling than she has while studying.

Realizing time is short before her test begins, Tara Phillips intensely crams in a last couple of moments of study time.

For The Look That Gets The Looks??????

Looks and expressions are a part of everyday life in college. Everyone not only recognizes the expression, but also understands the reason behind it.
What about the look of frustration? It occurs at various points during the school year. One of the most famous frustrated looks occurs during registration. A student waits in a long line for a course only to discover that the person in front of her has just taken the last place, and the class is closed: frustration. Or maybe it occurs when a student is busily working on a term paper, perhaps the night before it is due, and finds a great periodical reference for her subject. Her face changes expression as she discovers that Carlyle Campbell Library does not carry the periodical, and the closest library that does is at Duke University: frustration.
What about the look of enthusiasm? The greatest example of enthusiasm at Meredith is displayed at Cornhuskin'. A slassmate watches as her class's repreentative on stage bobs for apples. She screams for joy as each apple is flung onto the stage floor: enthusiasm. Another tradition that brings out enthusiasm is Play Day. As department competes against department loud cheers are heard from the sidelines of the relays: enthusiasm.
What about the look of surprise? Every freshman dorm student has experienced this, usually in early October. She sits up in bed to loud commotion and screaming at 6:00 a.m.: surprise (the sophomores are ready for Cornhuskin'). Another, more pleasant example occurs when the phone rings. Upon picking it up, the student learns she has flowers in Johnson Hall: surprise.
What about the look of intenseness? This usually occurs in the final moments before a test begins, and a student finds that cramming is the name of the game: intenseness. It may also happen under even more unpleasant circumstances. A student anxiously waits in the hallway before being summoned to appear before Judicial Board: intenseness.

What about the look of happiness? A student runs down the hall when she hears the exam schedule has been posted. She eagerly scans the courses and discovers all of her exams are selfscheduled: happiness. It also happens when a student puts her books away for the afternoon and ventures down to the Lake for Spring Fling. She enjoys a chance to be with her friends, to eat junk food, and to put aside studying: happiness.
What about the look of sadness? It happens when seniors don their caps and gowns and prepare for graduation. A senior looks around and sees all of the friends she has made in the past four years. She realizes she may not see some of her friends ever again: sadness. But this look of sadness changes, as do all other looks, when she looks toward the future - a future that four years at Meredith have prepared her for.

Fun: Off The Campus

Many, but not all, hours in a day are spent doing laborious college chores: studying, washing clothes, checking the mail, etc. What happens during those other hours? Well, Meredith students have fun! Their fun isn't confined to just the campus, but they have fun off the campus.

Being located in Raleigh is an advantage, because Raleigh itself is a source of fun. The State Fair comes to Raleigh in October, and Meredith students enjoy riding the rides, eating the cotton candy, playing the games, and watching people. Raleigh also offers many shopping centers, restaurants, theaters, and cultural events.

Meredith is also located close to other colleges and universities. N.C. State is just down the street, and UNC, Duke, and Wake Forest are only a road trip away. Many Meredith students enjoy being spectators at ACC football and basketball games.

There were many opportunities this year for having fun - off the campus.

The bright lights still shine as the State Fair closes down for the evening.

Many M.C. students visited the State Fair.

N.C. State prepares to beat ECU.

Cotton Candy is a junk food consumed by many Angels.

Meredith students are often among the red & white in Carter Stadium.

A wide selection of Hawaiian fruits is a treat of the luau.

Fun: On The Campus

There are many chances to have fun outside of Meredith, but there are also many chances for fun right here on campus! Besides all of the big events (Comhuskin', concerts) on campus which keep us captivated, there are little happenings which are enjoyable.
It's always fun to venture down to the "Hawaiian Island" for an authentic luau. Meredith students eagerly participate in this as they wear leis, Hawaiian shirts, and sunglasses.

The Meredith Recreation Association provided students with athletic fun through their intramurals program. From volleyball to ping pong, students found themselves competing against each other as well as brave faculty members.

The College Center Association provided fun on the weekends. They sponsored films such as Coma, $M^{} A^{} S^{*} H$, and Dr. Zhivago. They also began Coffeehouses at Cate Center featuring local musicians.

It seemed as though this year there was no end to fun - on the campus.
he VIP team, consisting of faculty and administrators, was an awesome competitor.

Ready for caroling fun are Susan Bishop, Jane Henderson, and Lynda Smith.

Being on a team means involvement in athletics and team spirit.

A great deal of a student's time involves studying.

Two Meredith students tie a yellow ribbon around a tree near the front drive.

Four students welcomed the hostages home in Washington, D.C.

Meredith Women Get Involved!

Meredith College women are somenes criticized for being apathetic. They me under fire for not taking an active e in world events, politics, and even ents on campus. This year, though, eredith women shrugged off those criisms and became involved.
Certainly the hostage crisis in Iran was concern to everyone. Meredith women owed their support of the hostages this I by tying yellow ribbons around the es that line the front drive. When the stages were released the Freshman ass sponsored a service of Thanksgivin the Rotunda. Marie Hiott, Debbie Itchinson, Georganne Narron, and Ann ringfield traveled to Washington, D.C. see the hostages' motorcade to the hite House.
This year was also a presidential elecn year. Meredith women were politicalactive as they campaigned for John iderson, Jimmy Carter, and Ronald zagan. On the election night, Student jvernment Association sponsored an ections Return Break at Cate Center. eredith women watched as Ronald Reagan was elected President of the United States.

The murders of black children and young adults in Atlanta have been on the minds of Meredith women. The Meredith Christian Association sold green ribbons in memory of those who had been killed. The proceeds were sent to Atlanta to help pay for the extensive investigation.

Besides all of the national events, local events at Meredith College were supported by her women. Cornhuskin' involved a great majority of students, as well as faculty, all of whom enjoyed the great enthusiasm of all the participants. Meredith women also attended many of the convocations held this year. One convocation which brought a very large audience was held during Religious Emphasis Week and featured Grady Nutt. A symposium was held in the spring featuring many different speakers concerned with the topic "Toward A Conscious Conscience." Classes were cancelled during the symposium to encourage student attendance. Although some students chose to lie out in the sun, many others attended the sessions. Play Day brought out many Meredith women support of their respective departments. Many women who did not choose to participate in the relays had fun rollerskating in the Courtyard.

Meredith women also became involved with clubs and organizations on campus The Interclub Council sponsored a food, toy, clothing, and money drive for needy families. Circle K sold Valentines and delivered them all over the campus. Psi Chi and the Psychology Club contributed heavily to the Carolinas' Psychology Conference held at N.C. State. Many clubs sponsored speakers for various convocations, such as the Colton English Club's sponsorship of Cleanth Brooks.
Meredith women took advantage of the athletic programs on campus. Since Meredith sponsors five different athletic teams which compete with other colleges, Meredith women enjoyed the opportunity to represent the College in varsity sports.

There were many unique ways for Meredith women to get involved this year: national events, campus events, etc. And they were involved!

ary Jones, Maureen Johnson, Janet Grennis, and Sandra Thomas led a panel discussion during the spring symposium.

Suites are composed of people with a special friendship as Sandy Shelley, Jane Brannock, Julie Knott, and Brenda Jones know.

The staff at Meredith isn't always in class or behind a desk!

At Meredith friendships are made that will last a lifetime.

The People Of Meredith

"People are our greatest asset." This statement could easily be the motto of Meredith College. Indeed, it is the people that make up the college, not just the buildings or the campus.

The student body is composed of many different people. Although they are all women, they still bring to the College varied talents and interests. Approximately $85 \%$ of the students are from the state of North Carolina. Many other states are represented, too. These include Virginia, Maryland, Florida, and South Carolina. Meredith is also fortunate to have international students on campus. These students bring a special educational experience that enriches the lives of all students.

The faculty of Meredith is a great resource of information for its students. The faculty, like the students, is a varied group of people. Many received their degrees at schools in North Carolina, such as Duke, UNC, Wake Forest, and Meredith. Others received doctorates from northern schools like Cornell, Yale, and Princeton. Meredith enjoys a $1: 17$ faculty to student ratio which means that to faculty members, students are people and individuals, not just numbers.

The administrators of Meredith have varied roles on the campus. While some administrators have more contact with students than others, all members of the administration serve necessary roles in keeping Meredith running smoothly.

Patrice "Santa" Strifert, Director of Student Activities, has much contact with students.

Classes: A Look At The Students Of Meredith

The beginning of a new school year brings a crop of fresh and anxious faces to the Meredith campus. The Freshman Class of ' 84 was no exception. They descended upon Meredith on hot and humid August 19, 1980 ready and eager to begin a four year stay. Although many felt those familiar pangs of homesickness as their parents left, they found themselves too busy adjusting to college to worry about home. Their freshman year can be characterized as the year of "Firsts." Freshmen experienced their first hall meeting, their first fraternity party, their first English Composition Class, their first Cornhuskin', their first call downs for missing a Fire Prevention Program, their first Play Day

Sophomores were present to welcome the freshmen to Meredith. As student advisors, sophomores provided much needed guidance in the scheduling of classes and the adjustment to college life. But the Sophomore Class had many other things to deal with besides frustrated freshmen. Sophomores had their chance to stay out past 1:00 a.m. during the week and 2:00 a.m. on the weekend through the priviledge of SDH. They also had to get down to the serious business of deciding what to major in. Many confident sophomores who had declared their majors their freshman year already knew what they would be taking their senior year. Other not so fortunate sophomores still weren't sure what courses they'd be taking next semester.

The Junior Class arrived on campus realizing that over half of their college career was complete. Juniors began to see the light at the end of the tunnel of higher education! They also enjoyed some upperclass priviledges - air conditioned dorms, the chance to be hall proctors in the freshman dorms, the convenience of having a car on campus, and the opportunity of ordering class rings. All was not perfect for the Class of ' 82 as juniors fought it out at registration for the much demanded business courses. The class also felt separated with juniors in every dorm on campus. But the class left in May ready to return as a strongly unified class in August.

It was a year of victories for the Senior Class of '81. The took first place in Comhuskin' and Stunt competitions, as well as successfully hiding the crook from the juniors. Many seniors also felt personal victories as they received lucrative job offers, acceptance to graduate school, and even diamond engagement rings! Seniors had many new experiences. They finished their student teaching; they lived in the Ellen Brewer House, and they worked at jobs through internships and co-ops. The Senior Class also experienced their year of "lasts." Seniors enjoyed their last Cornhuskin', their last high bill at the bookstore for textbooks, their last Christmas Dinner, their last JuniorSenior Dance, and the last time they would be called college students.

The Senior Class, donning their caps and gowns for the first time, heads toward the Founder's Day Program in Jones Auditorium.

Hello, World!

At last we get the comforts of air conditioning and reserved parking spaces. We know we only have a little longer to eat food from the wonderful Meredith cafeteria, to spend "all-nighters" typing papers, and to wait thirty minutes for the guards to let us in after a date.

But, with these dreams in our heads, we must face the realization that it is tine to enter the wide world and look for a job or a graduate school. Senior panic has hit!

We try to spend as much time as possible with the friends we have made in the past four years, as we realize we may not see some of them again for a long time. We make plans for a reunion with our closest friends at Christmas or during our first summer vacation.

Each of us will finally admit, perhaps a bit reluctantly, that we are ready to be on our own at last.

We're the best, full of fun: the class of ' 81 !

Remember those days in mid-October of 1977. Cornhuskin' was a major topic of our conversations. We had no idea of what to expect that night, and it was certainly an experience - for all of us. Although our attempt was not as successful as we had predicted, we all "Heard through the Grapevine" that we all had the talent and could be successful. When we lost Stunt in the spring of 1978, our big sisters were still "raisin" praises to us for our talent.
Well women, it took four years for us to show Meredith that the "grapevine gossip" was true. The class of 1981 was not a bunch of kids at a summer camp talent show, but a group of fun-loving, high spirited young women.
After winning Stunt for three consecutive years, we retired the trophy and also were victorious in Cornhuskin' '79 and '80.

What Do We Do Now?

The final year at Meredith has confronted each of us with a very big decision: Do I want to go on into graduate school or professional school or do I want to begin my career in the job world now? Being individuals, each of us has faced the question and answered it differently. Who will ever forget the nervousness, outterflies and sweaty palms, before their very first interview? Trying to remember all the tips on interviewing wasn't exactly calming to the soul; likewise, wondering what kinds of questions would be asked was equally unsettling. What a relief to discover it wasn't really so bad after all and that recruiters aren't ogres, but nice ordinary people doing their own jobs.

Graduate school? Law school? Medical school? Nerves are no less calm as the day draws nearer for the admissions test. If you've checked once, you've checked a hundred times to make sure you have three No. 2 pencils, an admissions ticket, and identification. Wracking your brains for everything you have ever learned is a monumental task. The pressure increases as the waiting for score reports continues. Applications and interviews fill many an hour as deadlines loom on the horizon. But we all will admit that the worry and waiting were all worth while.

Caps 'n' Gowns

"Is my cap on straight? Uh-oh, it's slipping. I knew it would be too big! . . . How do you fasten the collar on?"

We have looked forward to Founder's Day all year, so we can finally wear our caps and gowns. At last the realization hits that we have reached the milestone of being a college Senior. Are we really ready to enter the real world? We shall soon see!

... If you want a wife, go to Meredith!

Of course, we can't forget the traditional engagements and weddings that define a Meredith senior. The Alumnae House always seems to be booked during the spring for wedding showers, and everyone's calendar is filled with dates of summer weddings. 2nd Barefoot set a record in our class history with a list of 17 engagements!

But let's not forget those of us who didn't step over the threshold of marriage right away. Many of us were in those weddings or attended them and then went back to the single life and our careers.

Whichever route we chose during this year, the class of ' 81 will always be a class of deep love and sisterhood.

The song 'Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend' is a popular tune among engaged women in the Senior Class.

Being a Junior Being the Best!

The junior year is really exciting, and the Angels of ' 82 have lived it to the fullest. Being a junior means: realizing half the guys you meet are younger than you are, living at the back of campus, knowing next year you have to win Cornhuskin', giving the Seniors a junior/senior they will never forget, becoming a special sister to a freshmen and knowing you've made a bond that will live forever, the very special moment you receive your class ring and get a funny feeling that these wonderful days at Meredith are going by a little too fast. Being a junior is nothing without the friends we love. A BZ is a very special girl.

Work Together

It doesn't work at all if it doesn't work together - and the class of ' 82 really works together. At the kickoff class meeting of this school year, juniors "pigged out" on popcorn and lemonade, made wonderful Cornhuskin' plans, and selected the location and band for the best Junior-Senior Meredith College has ever seen. We knew we had a busy year ahead of us, and we would have to work hard, but we also knew it would be worth it all.

Big Sister Little Sister

We found out early as juniors that one of the biggest readjustments was turning into a Big Sister rather than having one. We welcomed our Little Sisters with gifts and food, ready to hand down all of our worldly advice. And we realized we'd be seeing another graduation perhaps all too soon - our own. Our Little Sisters of 1984 are becoming even more special to us.

Order Time For Class Rings

The long-awaited event is here. The Josten's man has arrived with the rings, and the juniors can talk of nothing else. "What size should I get? 10 or 14 Karat?" These are just a few of the things that are being said as they fill out the sheet and wonder how they can possibly wait until December to get their rings.

Look, The Dolls

As the dolls appeared out from behind their cases, the junior parade began. All of our hard work was expressed in about two minutes. Our theme was "Tradition," and our songs - which came in first place were a medley of tunes from "Fiddler on the Roof." From Johnson Hall pillar of our tall tale to the devil down at St. Mary's, our spirit was all Meredith. We placed second overall and looked forward to a chance at being in first place our senior year.

Look At Me, I'm A Sophomore!

Sophomore Year - one year down and two more to go! We were more experienced with Cornhuskin' (even though our parade placed fourth, again!). We walked confidently around campus, feeling slightly sorry for the confused Freshmen. We were not quite as terrified when the fire alarm went off at 2 a.m. and took advantage of self-scheduled exams for the first time. We became part of Meredith's work force, holding jobs in the library, dining hall, or Cate Center. We were Student Advisors, doing our best to make new students feel a part of Meredith. We still felt pangs of homesickness, but not nearly as often as before. We've made progress, but we still have a way to go - we are the Angels of '83!

SDH

SDH, Self Determining Hours, is a privilege reserved for upperclassmen and one joy of becoming a Sophomore! We no longer need to worry about getting back to campus by closing time, as we did a year ago. SDH allows upperclassmen to return to Meredith after closing hours. Students must follow the procedure outlined in the Handbook when they use this privilege. So freshmen, the next time it's 1:55 on a Saturday night and you are still at Frat Row, just remember: the time is one less thing you will have to worry about next year!

Declaring Majors

Declaring a major is probably one of the most important decisions made during one's college career. It is a policy of Meredith that this decision must be made no later than the spring of a student's Sophomore year. For some, choosing a major can be exiciting, as well as frustrating. After getting those vital signatures from advisors and turning the forms in at the Registar's office, the work has just begun. Now comes the fun of working required courses into schedules and worrying about GPAs. The next time you see an excited Meredith Sophomore saying, "I just declared," you will know that she has just taken a positive step toward planning her future.

Faculty advisors can be a big help when students are choosing their majors.

Goodbye Hello

One of the major reasons many young women decide to come to Meredith is the unique community atmosphere. It is easy to achieve this unity by having Big Sisters and Little Sisters. Big Sisters are special, for they are always there to listen to problems or to go shopping with. This year the class of ' 83 had to say goodbye to its Big Sisters, but the memories they made together will live on forever. Now the sophomores look eagerly toward meeting their Little Sisters in the Fall.

A Beginning

Getting started in our new rooms and learning handbook regulations were just the beginning for the Freshman class. During those early weeks, a regular trip to Frat Row or Zack's was a must, and it was soon discovered that too many visits from PTA became an extra five pounds. The year continued with Cornhuskin' and the Christmas Dance. Together, the class officers and Freshman council sponsored many successful projects. They have served our class very well.

Moving In

With boxes, bags, and bundles, the Freshman class moved into the Meredith community. We gazed around feeling utterly lost, but this changed as we met roommates and quickly got acquainted. Hugs, kisses, and often tears were exchanged before parents departed. The business of moving into our new rooms proved to be a colossal affair as the unpacking began. We eagerly awaited the experiences that our first year would hold.

A New Experience

For Freshmen, Cornhuskin' proved to be an exciting venture. We undertook it with the zeal that only a Freshman class could. Activities ranged from water fights to cheering at meals. Competition between the Freshmen and Sophomores was keen as each class tried to find out the others' theme. The Freshman class soared to a second place win in the parade with the theme "the south". We will never forget our first Cornhuskin' week.

Features: The Infinite Perils of College Life

What is college life all about? After all, our parents are constantly reminding us that these are the best days of our lives. Slyly we say to ourselves, "These could be the best days of our lives if we didn't have tests to take, papers to write, projects to complete, and other sources of worry." We do have to agree that college life is a unique and enlightening experience.

Why didn't someone warn us about taking 8:00 a.m. classes? We had no idea how hard it was going to be to crawl out of bed at 7:15 a.m. and make an attempt to get to class on time. Thank goodness we don't have to face a classroom full of men while looking like "death warmed over." We sure could have used some warning about those extra pounds we were bound to gain while at Meredith. Starchy cafeteria food along with trips to Zack's and Swensons were difficult temptations to resist!

Some of us didn't know that to be a full-fledged Meredith Angel one must own at least one pink and green outfit and an add-a-bead necklace! Luckily for the unkowing ones there were other fashion crazes to cash in on - like the chance to be an "Urban Cowgirl" or "Anti-Prep." Many of us also did not realize the importance of a sunny day. But by the end of four years at Meredith, one is certainly "in the know" about the best hours to lie out, the best suntan oil to use, and just how important the sun is for gaining that golden tan.

As if we didn't have enough to keep up with in our own lives, we become involved with the lives of people we have never met - every Monday-Friday during daytime television. Whether it's General Hospital with Luke and Laura or As The World Turns with Dee and John, soap operas are a big part of college life.

We weren't given enough warning about the living conditions we'd assume while at Meredith. Those students who fervently believe that "Cleaniness is next to godliness" manage to keep their rooms in perfect shape with not a single item out of place. Then there are those who adhere to the statement "A clean room is a sign of a sick mind" and go out of their way to prove that their minds are healthy. Of course many students would classify themselves as somewhere in between (in between the calm and the chaos.)

Although we warned about many new experiences we would enjoy while in college, often it has been the smaller events and features that have enriched our college lives.

While parents feel the "Empty Nest Syndrome" as their children leave home, college students feel the "Empty Box Syndrome" when no mail is found!

It's soap opera time! The days of our lives pass as the world turns because we only have one life to live and we're the young and the restless looking for a guiding light.

This angel tries to keep warm in her quilt.

and if anything were put in its proper place it would never be found.

"Light, Inbetween, or Dark"

Ahhh ... the fun days of washing clothes. Most people find out after the first week not to do clothes on Friday or Saturday. It's not like three-fourths of the dorm washes clothes on these two days.

When our clothes finally get sorted, the washer is broken or there are five or six baskets in line. If we are lucky enough to find an empty washer that works, we undoubtly have forgotten our $35 ¢$ or the Wisk. Then it's back up to the room for the

"To Lay Out or Lie Out That's the Question."

"Hey, Lisa. Are you going to lay out this afternoon?"
"No, but I may lie out!"
Yes girls, all these years we've been saying it wrong. Of course, after you get out of Freshman Comp. you've learned the difference and never again get the two confused.

The temperature has finally hit 60 degrees, and it's out to the decks, roof tops, and lawns.
"Don't forget the tape player and bring your new tape."

Jeanene, is there any way you would let us borrow your T.V. to set in the window to watch "G.H."?

I've got to have a new bathing suit. This one is at least a year old!"
"Don't forget to bring your psychology book. At least pretend like you're reading. It'll help your conscience some anyway."
money to find that someone has already beaten us to the washer. Well, just thirty more minutes to wait.

Oh, then there are the fortunate few who get to go home and let their moms do the dirty work. I wonder how many of them know that you're not supposed to wash a brand new pair of jeans with your best, pink oxford?

By the way, will this wool sweater shrink if I put in the dryer? Oh well, it's worth a try.

No Meredith angel would cut class to lie out! Well, maybe a few. Soak up those rays, girls!

"As the Combination Turns"

"Hi, what's your name?"
"225 S. How about you?"
"Oh, I'm 221 S."
"It's nice to meet you. Have you met any of the other mailboxes around here?"
"Well, no, not really."
"See 301 V over there?"
"Yeah?"
"Well, he's a real "lady's man." I could really tell you a few things about him, but this is a respectable girl's school. See 104 P? She's pretty nice, even though she doesn't get much mail, like me!"
"You do have an awfully big amount of mail today!"
"I always do. I'm the envy of every mailbox on the whole wall."
"How about 422 Br- What's she like?"
"Oh, let me tell you! Promise you won't tell anyone else."
"Okay."
" 422 Br hasn't gotten a single letter all year!"
"You've got to be kidding!"
"No I'm not. That was the big news last week!"
"You sure do know a lot about everyone don't you?"
"Yeah, and that's just the beginning

Even though we know that it's a lost cause, we walk to Cate and check the mailbox twice a day.

Who Loves Who?

Yes, here we are in higher education, and we still write on desks. Let's see what we have here: "Pam-n-Sam", U.N.C., Sigma Phi Epsilon, "This class is boring". These are just a few of the many things that you might find on a desk top here.
What makes writing on desks so popular? Maybe somebody has a new boyfriend and is just dying to find out how his name looks beside hers. This guy may also attend N.C.S.U. and be a member of one of the many "frats". Then again, there are the girls who don't have anything better to do than writing messages back and forth to the other people that sit in a particular desk.
Writing on desks in school is something that seems to come naturally to any stulent. After all we have to know who loves who!

Writing on desk tops is a favorite pastime of girls whose minds definitely aren't on class.

It's Time For Angels To Eat

Meals at Meredith College are usually good. There are special occasions when the cafeteria workers really out do themselves. Some such occasions are steak night, and ice cream sundaes for dessert. We also have some special lunches such as make your own sandwich and an extravagant salad bar.

However, on the nights that we have fabulous meals like fried chicken livers or cheese strada, the salad bar and neighboring fast food establishments do a booming business. Students head for both Cate Center and Burger King. A sure sign that supper wasn't the greatest is the vision of pizza boxes lining the halls the next morning.

The length of the line at the salad bar would suggest an untavorable meal.

Everyone anxiously awaits to see what surprises lie ahead in line.

A short line is a sure sign of "bad" food.

Jane Ashley and Melony are caught studying.

It's All A Part Of Dorm Life

_ Oh, ya'll ... What happened? It is a mess in here!

- Oh, nothing unusual
- Hey, it's 3:00, quick turn on "G.H.".
- Susan, can I borrow your purple polo shirt?
- Sure, it's over there somewhere.
- Quiet everyone! It's on.
- Hey, what's for dinner tonight?
- I don't know but l'm sure we'll all come out just as hungry!
-Do ya'll think Anne and Jeff will ever get together?
- Oh, what about Luke and Laura?
- (Commercial)
- Hey, who knows what the latest is with

Kim and her boyfriend?

- l'm not sure but I saw her talking on the phone in the hall at about 12:30 last night.
- Great, I hope they can patch things up.
- Shhh -
- Oh, I'm sorry. Hey, did ya'll know we have a hall meeting tonight?
- No, please tell me we don't.
- Sorry.
- I just hate those meetings . . . they are always so boring!
- Hey, did ya'll know it is Anna's birthday tommorrow?
- Sure, we're planning to decorate her door "Big Time"!
- "Man on the hall."
- Quick, open the door
-Who is it?
- Oh, it's only Thomas, he's probably here to fix another blown fuse!
- Hey, remember our first night here?
- Yes, do I ever! How could I forget? It wasn't even 5 hours before we blew the fuse and had no electricity all night.
- Yep, thanks to ya'll we had to sleep in misery because of not being able to use the fan, not that it would have mattered, but.
- I know, these rooms get so - hot. I wish they were air-conditioned.
- Quiet ya'll, this is a good part -
- Hey, are ya'll going to Zack's tonight?
- No, I don't think so, but I think Sue and Kathy may be going to Ed's.

- Okay, l'll talk to them, thanks.
- I'm so tired!
- I wonder why!? We were only up at 2:15 this morning.
- Really, why do we have to have fire drills at that time of night any way?
- Security must love to watch us run out in our nightgowns!
- Susan, we're going to have to clean up this place ...
- Yeah, I guess your right.

A group of Meredith Angels waits in the cold of the night to return to the warmth of their beds.

Everyone always enjoys a birthday surprise.

Many hours at night are spent on the phone.

Students have even been known to schedule classes around their favorite soap opera!

Hurricanes Tricia and Sheila from 2nd String leave a state of confusion in their paths.

Not everyone keeps their rooms messy - in some rooms you can find what you're looking for!

In the midst of the calm there's still chaos.

Having a neat room helps to find your bed.

Love A Fair!

"Well, here it is - The day after a big day at the State Fair. Wow, it was great! The hot dogs, candy apples, cotton candy, Cokes, and corn dogs were fantastic! It's just too bad we didn't think about how we would feel when we had to get up for class this morning!"
"For most people, however, it was how they felt when they tried but didn't succeed in getting up for class."
"Where will I put all of these stuffed animals? I can't believe how lucky I was! Can you?"
"No! You had better be glad I put up with your stuffed animal craze though."
"Wasn't that roller coaster fun? l'll never ride another one ... at least not until next year."
"Yeah, it was great. My stomach thought so too. Why did you drag me on that thing right after my fourth hot dog?"
"Guess that will teach you a lesson, huh?"
"That's for sure. l'll only eat three next time!!"

"Oh, come on and ride with us on this one! It's fantastic! You go upside down, sideways

"Wow, just 20 more points, and I'll have that Teddy Bear!"

"I'm so full, but I will have another hot dog, a corn dog, some cotton candy iwimming is a must for the figure conscious woman.

Sports Activities For Everyone

When people think of a women's college, sports activities are often the last thing they think of. Well, here at Meredith the students aim to prove that myth wrong. Many of the women are very concerned about keeping their figures, and they exercise regularly. It's not uncommon at all to see the hall lined with girls in the evening going through exercise patterns. For those who don't enjoy plain old exercising, swimming can break the monotony. Free swim hours are offered on different weeknights and weekends.

For those who actively involve themselves, sports remain important. Fall means football. On Saturday mornings women are hustling about, getting ready for the big State or Carolina game.

Jaturdays may mean a chance to go to a ball game.
ixercise is good for your figure and catching up on the latest gossip.

Meredith students often enjoy the State football games.

Administration: We're Working 9 to 5

The alarm clock tings at 7:15 a.m. And so begins a typical day in the life of Josephine Administrator. She tumbles out of bed, stretching and yawning, and heads to the kitchen to turn on the coffee maker. While the coffee is brewing, Josephine gets her heart pumping with a long shower. Then she goes through her morning rituals: make-up, hair, dress. Josephine reads the News and Observer and watches The Today Show while she eats her breakfast - a bowl of wheaties and a piece of toast. After a last sip of coffee, she's ready to face the world.
Josephine gets her VW Rabbit started after two attempts, and she begins her journey to Meredith. She fights the rush hour traffic on the Raleigh Beltline, as do all the other commuters. Today the traffic is not too overwhelming, and soon Josephine is coasting down the front driveway. She quickly scans the parking lots in front of Johnson Hall for an open space. After finding one, she pulls in - her journey thus complete.
A pile of mail 12 inches tall is waiting for Josephine on her desk. She patiently sorts through each letter while thinking of replies. For those letters which seem to her the most important, Josephine pulls out her dictophone and records the replies. She walks to the next office, chats with the administrators there, and gets a cup of coffee. Returning to her own office, Josephine looks over her calendar for the day, taking special notice of meetings and conferences which are to occur. She puts the finishing touches on a presentation she will make and makes her way to a meeting in the Board Room. The first part of the meeting is boring to Josephine as they discuss issues which do not relate to her office. After awhile Josephine's part on the program arrives, and before she knows it the meeting is over.

By the time Josephine is back in her office her secretary has finished typing letters, and Josephine signs them. A quick glance at her watch and Josephine notices that it is lunch time. She goes and swims at the pool on her lunch hour. Afterwards she gets a bite to eat at the Snack Bar. She's missed the noon rush there, and it doesn't take her long to be waited on. Josephine takes her lunch back to her office since she has many things to do there and so little time.

The afternoon goes by before she realizes it. Josephine has been busy with phone calls, conferences with students, and projects to complete. Finally at about 4:45 p.m. things begin to calm down a little bit. Josephine uses this time to plan her schedule for the next day - the cycle will be repeated.

By 5:00 p.m. Josephine is in her car and driving down the front driveway of Meredith towards home. She catches herself yawning, but Josephine doesn't let it bother her since she knows she's been working 9 to 5 .

Johnson Hall is "home" to many offices of the administrators who work 9 to 5.

Our President

Most mornings when the President's office staff arrives at Meredith College, President Weems is already hard at work with the duties that keep this special community running smoothly. His day begins by reviewing and answering his mail. After having office appointments with prospective teaching faculty members and administrators, President Weems has luncheon meetings with administrators, faculty members, or civic clubs. His afternoons are spent in committee work and strategic planning for Meredith. Approximately four evenings a week are devoted to committee meetings, his church, and related professional organizations. His duties do not conclude here because many weekends are also spent attending alumnae meetings and making development calls, as well as teaching sunday school. President Weems serves on the Board of Deacons of Hayes Barton Baptist Church, on the Raleigh Board of Directors of Wachovia Bank, and belongs to numerous educational organizations. For a man as active as this, there is little time for his favorite hobbies, golf and sketching. His weekly schedule is evidence of his loyalty and dedication to keeping Meredith College at the forefront of higher education.

John Linderman, of this office, also seeks to solve any parental concerns and to raise additional funds from parents.

Academics: What Goes On In The Classroom

On the average, each Meredith student spends about 15-18 hours a week in the classroom. During those class hours, and the many hours of study time outside of class, students are in pursuit of that wellrounded liberal arts education. Every degree candidate fulfills the same general requirements as outlines in the Catalogue. These requirements include: religion, English, health and physical education, mathematics and natural sciences, social and behavioral sciences, and electives from the humanities and fine arts.
What happens when a student completes all of the necessary general requirements and all her major requirements, but she still needs hours to reach that all important goal of 124 hours for graduation? Well, she usually begins scanning the Catalogue and schedule for the next semesters. She looks for a class that will be interesting and informative, and one in which she may have no experience whatsoever! The student may also desire a class through which she may complete a special project.

Many art and non-art majors have enjoyed graphic design. Students not only learn the art of calligraphy, but they also design, illustrate, and write their own children's books. Some students who would like to put their "Miss Jane Birdwatcher" khaki bermudas to good use may select the ornithology course offered by the Biology Department. Biology majors who took this course arose around 4 o'clock one Saturday morning and headed for the beach in pursuit of birds. The Office of Career Planning and Cooperative Education sponsors the popular one-hour credit Career Planning Seminar. In this course students prepare their resumes and have sample job interviews.

If you're having trouble filling out your tax returns, you don't have to see $H$ & $R$ Block - just enroll in Consumer Economics, offered by the Business Department. Students learn not only how to complete their tax returns, but also how to be intelligent consumers. For students who enjoy writing, the English Department offers a creative writing course. In this class students write and compile their own books.

The Department of History and Political Science sponsors a Capital City Semester for its majors. Student visit the Legislature and have guest lecturers - all in an effort to receive first hand knowledge of state government. For students who are interested in learning how to refinish furniture, the Home Economics Department has a home furnishings class. Students purchase an old piece of furniture, refinish it, and then have a nice piece of furniture of their own. The Psychology Department through many of its classes has conducted experiments with Meredith students as participants. The Learning Class worked with a group of students by using a slide presentation in order to encourage them to donate blood to the Red Cross.

According to a recent poll conducted by the Editorial Board of the yearbook staff, the average student's favorite part of class at Meredith is at the end . . . when the bell rings.

Joseph Maron, Craig Greene, Rachel Brown.

The Art Department helps students learn to function creatively in a variety of studio experiences and gain an understanding of human culture through courses in art history. The department invites those students who feel they have no talent to discover their hidden talents after acquiring some professional instruction. Provisions are made for students who wish to teach art; and through the special studies program, a student may pursue certain projects, whether it be photography, painting, ceramics, or graphics.

In Color and Design, Mr. Maron shows students a mixing technique.

Ever walk past the labs in Hunter and hear the oos and ahs? Or smell the putrid odors!

The Biology Department at Meredith provides the opportunities for students to learn more about our bodies and health, about the ecology of our surroundings, creatures, microorganisms, "Friends" from the seas . . . about a vast range of living organisms.

Students range from those with a general interest in the field to those pursuing a profession in the sciences - as lab technicians, researchers, doctors
As one can see, the department's students are of a wide variety and the subject matter encompasses a vast range - but that's how the world of living organisms is. The faculty with their enthusiasm and knowledge assist and direct students in becoming more educated and interested in this, the discipline of biology.

To the average person the previous formulas might appear to be some sort of nonsense. But to a business student at Meredith, they represent everyday langage. The Business and Economics Department at Meredith offers a wide variety of courses that will enhance a student's future as a career woman. Plans have been proposed for the construction of a business building because of the increasing number of students majoring in business at Meredith. The department is constantly expanding the scope of courses to meet the demands of a challenging business career.

Dr. Frazier presents accounting procedures.

While most students visualize the science of chemistry as test tubes bubbling over and people in white lab coats, the Department of Chemistry and Physical Science seeks to provide students with the understanding and application of chemistry in daily life. Through both lectures and laboratory work, students are prepared for many graduate and professional opportunities. These opportunities may include a career in a health-related field, medical technology or even textiles.

an old Chinese proverb

Teaching is not merely lecturing. Education is not achieved by sitting at a desk and listening while a teacher tells you what you know. Learning is experiencing - through discussion, practice, demonstration, and experimentation. It is participation. Education incorporates the whole person. This major concept is instilled in all Education majors by our professors' examples and our method courses. It is important to teach each individual student as well as the subject. To teach is to become aware of differences, for each child is unique. It means being flexible, for as we are instructing, we are learning. As our students grow, so do we.

Mrs. Allred grades papers before class begins.

"Language is the dress of thought." - Samuel Johnson

English is a major that enriches every other subject and teaches one to communicate effectively. Grammar, composition, and literature are the basic areas of study. And the big three - Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Milton - teach the importance of clarity of thought while exploring the beauties of our language.
"The chief glory of every people arises from its authors."

Many people believe that the ability to speak, read, and write in a foreign language is both a talent and a necessity for well-educated individuals. The Department of Foreign Language believes that each student should acquire the speaking, reading, and writing knowledge of at least one foreign language. In order to attain this knowledge, students are required to complete six hours of study in French, German, Latin or Spanish. The department offers majors and minors in French and Spanish. In addition to reading and conversation, the study of foreign civilization and literature is emphasized.

Mrs. Burgunde Winz lectures in French class.

The Department of History and Political Science works to develop within each student a broad and analytical outlook necessary for an educated and effective citizen. Within this department four majors are offered: History American Civilization, Non-Western Civilizations, and Political Studies. Through class, special programs like Capital City Semester, visiting lecturers, and research projects, students are well-prepared to teach, enter law school, work in the government, or even embark upon diplomatic careers.

Suzy who? Suzy Homemaker. Even though she may be referred to as "Suzy Homemaker", the home economist maintains a vital role in the world today. Home Economics is a field that is greatly expanding and constantly changing. With extensive research being conducted and solutions to various problems being sought, the field of home economics remains an exciting and challenging one. This is where Meredith comes in. The Meredith Home Economics Department offers a wide variety of courses through which home economics may be explored. Whether your interests be in food and nutrition, interior design and home furnishings, clothing and textiles, or marriage and the family and child development, the Home Economics Department is staffed with outstanding instructors who are eager to assist students who wish to develop their careers. Careers in horre economics include those related to business, teaching, extension, fashion, interior design, homemaking, consumer services and countless others. Through these careers home economists are discovering how means of improving and simplifying our lives in the hectic world today!

The Math Department offers functions, calculus, alegbra, statistics, and geometry to interested students. But in addition to these subjects the department has met the increasing demand for computer science classes. Majors receive a strong math background in preparation for teaching or graduate study in mathematics and related fields. Many students combine the study of math with other disciplines such as business, economics, or biology.

Performance is the core of the curriculum offered by the Department of Music and the Performing Arts. Students are encouraged to perform regularly, whether in the classroom, in the studio, or in church. Through lessons, theory classes, the study of music history, ensembles, and recitals, music majors are exposed to the importance of music in society. The department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree and a Bachelor of Music degree. Students may major in Applied Music or Music Education. With a large faculty as well as exceptional equipment and facilities for study, music majors are able to put their musical training into action.

Want to be rid of those 15 pounds every freshman gains? Want to simply stay in shape during sophomore slump? Or play competitive athletics at a varsity level? The Meredith Physical Education Department is for you!

Offering a variety of activities to meet the needs of each student, the college is equipped with a well-trained staff who know their business and take it seriously. Under the leadership of Chairman Jay Massey, the Physical Education Department at Meredith plays a vital role in the physical well-being of students.

Psychology - it's a field as vital as life itself, a study as individual as you are. It provides for all kinds of questions, but continually stimulates the formation of new ones.

Psychology at Meredith is full of options. The small number of required courses allows ample freedom for following your own interests. The faculty are always willing to guide students in research projects and special studies. Two campus organizations sponsor programs of interest: Psychology Club and the national honor society, Psi Chi. Outside opportunities are also available - research work at EPA, NIEHS, and Dorothea Dix; internships in the community and surrounding areas; the Carolinas' Psychology Conference; seminars and guest speakers; and the PAGE program. The possibliities are only limited by you.

Dr. Aubrecht advises Teresa Deshields during her conference.

Meredith's Religion Department challenges each of its students to develop and understand her religious thoughts. The faculty struggles with the student as she studies and grows through biblical studies, histories, and ideas. Not only do courses center around Christian teachings, but they also encompass the study of other world religions. Religion majors are required to have twenty-four hours of study, while the minors need eighteen hours. All Meredith students are required to take at least six hours of religion. The Religion Department is studentcentered for the growth and enlightenment of all students.

The Department of Sociology and Social Work offers a major in Sociology and a certificate in Social Work. The Department seeks to develop within students a social consciousness and as members of a particular culture and society. Field projects, community internships, volunteer experiences, cooperative education placements, and classroom learning are all experimental learning opportunities available to students to provide them with the knowledge and experience in planning careers.

Is Department Chairman, Dr. Sumner spends much of his time on raperwork.

Sociology major Lillie Lawson puts the finishing touches on her project.

Clubs & Organizations; Let's Get Involved!

Upon entering college, freshmen receive many pieces of advice. Some of this advice may include: study hard, don't skip class, don't fall behind in your work, enjoy yourself, and write home often. One other piece of advice a freshman may receive which would enrich her college experience is: get involved with extracurricular activities on campus. If a freshman is worried that she may not find anything she's interested in at Meredith, she stops worrying as soon as she arrives and sees all the opportunities awaiting her.

There are over 50 clubs & organizations on the Meredith Campus. These groups consist of interest clubs, publications, student government, talent groups, honor societies, and service clubs. Some students may concentrate themselves in involvement in just one of these areas, while other students like to try a little bit of everything and are involved in many clubs.
The interest clubs consist of many de-partment-oriented organizations like the Art Club, Colton English Club, Psychology Club, or Tomorrow's Business Women's Club. Another interest club American Society for Personnel Administration (ASPA) is national in scope. Other clubs, like the Sign Language Club, attempt to increase a person's knowledge in a specific area. The interest groups also involve politically active organizations. The Young Democrats Club and the College Republicans are involved on the the Meredith Campus and statewide.

Although Meredith has no journalism school and offers no journalism courses, there are still opportunities for actual journalistic experience. Members of the literary magazine, newspaper, and yearbook staffs take their jobs seriously. They enjoy the chance to be creative and productive. Publications at Meredith remain a vital link in the communications process of her students.

The Student Government Association, of which each student is a member, is active in all aspects of student life. Each student has a voice in the government even if she does not hold a specific office. Some areas of student government, such as the Judicial Board and the Elections Board, keep the system running within its constitution and by-laws. Each student is also a member of CCA, MCA, and MRA - organizations which provide many opportunities for growth and enjoyment.

Most of the talent groups at Meredith center around the Music Department, and more specifically, singing. Students can express themselves through dance, acting, and synchronized swimming. The Honor Societies were formed to recognize student achievement - in scholarship, leadership, and service. Honor Societies like Kappa Nu Sigma and Silver Shield are traditions while new societies may be formed if the need arises (Delta Mu Delta for the Business Department).

The Astros and Phis have long been a part of service organizations at Meredith. These groups raise money and lend support for various charities in the Raleigh Community. Circle K and Student Foundation provide service to various offcampus projects as well as to Meredith itself.

As The Oak Leaf Turns Or Who Shot J.K.?

Another one has bitten the dust. Jill Kibler, 1981 Oak Leaves Editor and better known as J.K., has been shot by a member of the yearbook staff. The Meredith Security Force has been desperately searching for a suspect. What they have turned up is a whole staff of suspects.

The wounded and unconscious editor was found in the student publications office by a cleaning woman. Immediately the Meredith Security Force began working on the case. They brought in experienced detective William Hunter who specializes in crimes involving yearbook staffs. Hunter began the investigation by interviewing each member of the 1981 Oak Leaves staff. From these extensive interviews Hunter was able to compile a list of suspects along with their motives for shooting J.K.

The members of the Editorial Board admitted that at various times during the year they had discussed bumping off the editor in order to take over publishing the 1981 Oak Leaves. In addition, the Business Manager made reference to doing away with J.K. so that she could take the money and go to the Bahamas. The Clubs & Organizations Section Members often get involved with happenings on campus and could have easily become involved with a shooting. Worrying about a lack of events at Meredith, The Events Section Members admitted they had hoped an exciting event like the shooting of J.K. would occur so they could cover it in the yearbook. The Features Section Members, like the Events Section, expressed an interest in covering crime in their section, and they have also been linked to the theft of the Security Guards' car. The competitive nature of the Sports Section Members was revealed when Hunter overheard them bragging about who was the best markswoman in their section.
After sifting through physical evidence and interview tapes, Hunter reported that he had solved the case. Who shot J.K.? Stay tuned to the next edition of the Oak Leaves to find out!

Events: The Happenings In Student Life

"What's going on at Meredith College?""Nothing."

The preceeding reply is wrong because there is always something going on at Meredith College! The events on campus may involve the whole student body or just a few students. No matter what the size, the events that occur during the school year enhance the lives of each student.

Some events are a necessary part of student life. Moving in is a good example of this. Deciding how much stuff to bring to school and how many trips to the room it will require is a strategy developed with experience. Another chore students experience is the registration process. From receiving advice to standing in lines, each student knows the disappointment of having to revise an already revised schedule and the victory of completing registration in less than five minutes.

Many events at Meredith are traditions which have been handed down from generation to generation. The tradition which receives the largest support is Cornhuskin'. Only one who has experienced this event can truly understand why students bring such enthusiasm to this competition. Thanksgiving and Christmas Dinners are also pleasurable traditions. They not only mean a chance to dress up, but also good food. Founder's Day is a time to look back at Meredith's heritage, as well as look at the future. Stunt is a tradition which has lost much of its student participation in recent years. Play Day has also lost some of its popularity, but with the growing competition between the departments it seems to be gaining more attention.

Events can also be valuable learning experiences. Religious Emphasis Week serves to guide students in renewed religious commitment; Black Emphasis Week is a special reminder of black heritage. The symposiums bring off campus personalities to Meredith in an effort to broaden the experiences of Meredith students.

Events are also fun! They give students a break from studying and a chance to enjoy student life. Fall Festival and Spring Fling are both held down at the Lake. With promises of a good time for all, students and faculty delight in the chance to eat junk food and play games.

Events are often in the form of celebrations. During Class Day the Senior Class looks back at their accomplishments in their four years at Meredith. Of course graduation is the ultimate event in each college student's life. It is here that seniors say good-bye to those events that have made their lives at Meredith so special.

U-Haul, and I'll Supervise!

It seems like l've been standing in this ine forever. I don't know if I want a yellow hone or a white phone. Mom always says that white shows dirt too easily juess it'll be yellow.
I sure am lucky that I have my two orothers helping Dad carry all my prize oossessions. How many more trips will hey have to make? Maybe the new elevators will make it easier. Hmm ... I'll nave to rearrange my room after everyone leaves. Mom's already put everything away - I'll never find anything.
It sure is nice to see everybody again.

Fall Festival

What's a great way to spend a day outside listening to some good music? Try Fall Festival! This gala event was held on the first Sunday of the fall semester with the purpose of familiarizing freshmen with the many different organizations on campus. Each organization sponsored a booth during Fall Festival. The College Republicans had a display of the Republican candidates. The music was supplied by Rob Crosby, and the menu consisted of cotton candy, ice cream, snow cones, and watermellon. You could even go fishing - not for fish but for a surprise. T-shirts, balloons, and Meredith bumper stickers were for sale. Midway through the Fall Festival it began to rain. Students took refuge under tables, and Rob Crosby stopped playing. Soon the sun began to shine again, and Fall Festival was in full swing once more.

Chow Time

This year, along with the traditional Thanksgiving and Christmas Dinners, Meredith Angels enjoyed Italian night. It was complete down to checked tablecloths on the eve of Stunt. The luau on the island was another highlight along with the picnic in the Courtyard before the mad rush to Cornhuskin'. This picnic was complete with hamburgers, hot dogs, baked beans, peanuts, candy apples, and a cotton candy tree. ## Speakers

Convocations at Meredith have been special this year. The variety of topics addressed by lecturers is remarkable. In the opening convocation, Dr. Glenn Hinson addressed the topic "Spiritual Discipline For Liberated Minds." Grady Nutt and the Reverend John Stone spoke during Religious Emphasis Week. And for Founder's Day, Dr. Cecil Sherman, president of the North Carolina Baptist Convention, spoke.

Undecided about a career? Come to Career Day where any one of eighty-five representatives from a variety of companies can help you in your decision. Many of these representatives were Meredith graduates. The program, Careers Unlimited 1980: The Sky's The Limit, was sponsored by the Office of Career Services and Cooperative Education on Wednesday, November 5 in the gym. Representatives from such fields as Aviation, Computer Science, and Retailing were ready, willing, and able to answer Angels' questions. Students asked them about the special training needed, the responsibilities, and the chance for advancement in their fields. Student participation in Career Day was good. Some suggestions from the students were to make it longer, repeat it every year, and even to have Career Day required for freshmen.

Cornhuskin':A

What is it called when the quiet, studious angels of Meredith College turn into devils and participate in midnight raids, water fights and chants? CORNHUSKIN'! What else?
The week of cornhuskin' was a funfilled and exciting one that came to a climax with a picnic in the courtyard and the class competition in Jones Auditorium. The air was filled with excitement, and chants of "We're number one" could be heard all over campus.

Class Parades began the evening of competition. Seniors won first place with a parade entitled "Heard it Through the Grapevine." Freshmen newcomers to Cornhuskin' took second place with a parade on "Southern Life". A theme of Meredith Traditions placed the Juniors third in the competition. And last but not least, the Sophomores took fourth place with a parade on "Reflections of Meredith Life.'

The second most favorite area of competition was the tall tales. Again, the seniors took first place with a tale of gossip told by a glass of T.J. Swann wine. The sophomores received second place with a mirror who nad seen all sides of dorm life. Juniors and Freshmen tied for third place in the competition. The Juniors' tale was told by a Johnson Hall pillar and the Freshmen's ale was told by an "overused" cotton ball. And once again, faculty member Dr. Bernard Cochran entertained the audience as the favorite "fairy godfather."

The classes also competed with a class song. This year the Juniors took first olace, the Sophomores second, the Seniors third and the Freshmen fourth. Other areas of competition included hog calling skits, applebobbing, cornhusking, and class participation.
While the judges tabulated scores, the audience was entertained by the music of he Bath Tub Ring and a new threesome composed of Lynn Moss, Cindy Mays, and Patrice Strifert.
At last, the long awaited moment arived. The judges returned with their decisions. For the second year in a row, the lass of 1981 received first place, folowed by the Juniors in second, the Sophomores in third and the Freshmen in ourth. After the Cornhuskin' competition here were celebration parties everywhere for the classes.

Parents'

Weekend

Parents' Weekend, which was held on November 8-9, was a fun time when parents had a chance to see their daughter's home away from home. They got to meet friends, professors, and do lots of interesting things.

Activities began on Saturday with a luncheon for alumnae families in the Mae Grimmer Alumnae House. Later, registration was held in Cate Center where parents could also see various displays in the "Academic Showcase." In addition to the activities in Cate Center, the parents had a chance to see the Aqua Angels put on an exciting show called "Splash a Rainbow." During the afternoon, various members of the faculty put on a forum and the Home Economics department gave a fall fashion show for the parents' entertainment. Saturday evening a banquet was held in Belk Dining Hall, and a talent show composed of Meredith Angels was held in Jones Auditorium.

Sunday morning began with a worship service in Jones Auditorium and was followed by a pig pickin'; refreshments and drinks were provided for the parents in the parlors of each residence hall.

As Parents' Weekend came to a close, families returned to their homes with a greater understanding of the various things that make Meredith so unique.

We Gather Together

On Monday, November 24th Meredith students gathered together to enjoy the annual Thanksgiving Dinner. This bountiful feast, prepared by the Cafeteria Staff, was served buffet style. Students anxiously awaited the opportunity to fill their plates from the serving tables.

Students were not disappointed by the variety of food in abundance. Besides the usual turkey and dressing, there was roast beef, green beans, rolls, and salad. Of course, this meal would not have been complete without a tasty dessert.

Ho, Ho, Ho, Merry Christmas

While millions of children were thinking about Santa and presents, Meredith Angels were thinking about caroling, Cate Christmas Crash, the traditional Christmas Dinner, Secret Santas and special hall parties.

Caroling is always a special time for Meredith students. They go around to professors' homes and serenade them with Christmas carols. After they've finished singing, the professor invites them inside for some Christmas goodies.
Cate Christmas Crash was celebrated by roasting marshmellows over a roaring fire upstairs in Cate Center. Refreshments were served, and you could decorate your own sugar cookies with red or green icing. Entertainment was provided by Patrice Strifert and Dr. Thomas. Of course that jolly ol' man with the white beard came to Cate Christmas Crash for a visit.

Another special Christmas event at Meredith is the traditional Christmas Dinner. Hungry angels flocked to Belk Dining Hall for the feast.

Along with all the holiday celebrations, students were celebrating at their hall Christmas parties and decorating their hall Christmas trees with handmade ornaments brought from home.

Secret Santas were also a big part of Christmas at Meredith. It was always a pleasure to open the door and see what your Secret Santa had left outside.

Religious Emphasis Week

The week of January 26-30 was Religious Emphasis Week at Meredith. The highlights of the week included a worship experience with humorist Grady Nutt, a candlelight communion in the Rotunda, a worship service and an informal discussion with Rev. John Stone, and a concert with Damascus Road.

Black Emphasis Week

Febrary 9-13 was celebrated as Black Emphasis Week in recognition of the many contributions of black Americans to the history and growth of our nation. Special activities were scheduled each day of the week beginning with an opening convocation led by guest speaker Carolyn Bennett, publisher and editor of The Network of North Carolina Women. A dance group production entitled "Through Our Eyes: Portrait of the Black Woman," a gospel sing with William Stewart, a workshop service with Robert Taylor and the Louisburg High School Choir, and black poetry readings all highlighted this special week of tribute to the black American heritage.

It’s Rush Week!

January 18, 1981, began Rush Week for Meredith's two community service clubs, the Astros and the Phis. Phi Day was held on Tuesday the 19th. Freshman halls were decorated with blue and white. The Phis recruited 32 new members. Over the past year, the organization has had various fund-raising activities, including selling stationery. The Phis have started a new program entitled "Pals for Palsy" where the members work on a one-to-one basis with their adult clients who are afflicted with cerebral palsy.
Wednesday the 20th was Astro Day. Yellow and white lit up the freshman dorms, and students received starshaped cookies. Lynn, Patrice, and Cindy sang their songs in the star-decorated cafeteria. Twenty-eight new members signed with the Astros. This school year, the Astros held a Walk-a-thon and raised $$ 920.00$ for Muscular Dystrophy. Also, the Astros have continued their work with the Shelley School for handicapped children.

Home Away From Home: Meredith Abroad

The summer of 1980 designated the sixth year of the Meredith Abroad Summer in Britain Program. Meredith students and several of their professors left the U.S.A. and touched down in Scotland where they spent the first two and a half weeks of their learning experience. Saint Andrew's, Scotland kept them busy with many day trips. When their stay in beautiful Scotland had ended, they traveled four days through England.

London, England was their new home for the next five and a half weeks. The group stayed one-half mile away from Wimbledon. Local sights such as Buckingham Palace, St. Paul's Cathedral, the Tower of London, Windsor Castle, Trafalgar Spuare, and Westminister Abbey were all only a moment away once the group mastered the art of the doubledecker buses and the Tube (subway).
It was a long stay - but it went by almost too quickly. New friends were made, along with many unforgettable memories.

A Tribute To Our Founders

Founder's Day has always been an important day in the Meredith experience. Seniors donned their caps and gowns for the first time, alumnae and trustees were present, and everyone enjoyed a banquet in the cafeteria. On February 27, 1981, the guest speaker for Founder's Day convocation was Dr. Cecil Sherman, Chairperson of Church Growth Commission. Dr. Sherman is a former Meredith trustee.

In Concert At Meredith

Sponsored by the Concerts and Lectures Committee of CCA, Meredith students and guests were entertained during $1980-81$ by a variety of musicians, including The Rob Crosby Band, Tom Chapin, Mike Cross, and The Mark Pruette Band, The musicians combined diverse instruments, humor, and showmanship to provide a year of concerts not to be forgotten by delighted audiences.

Rob Crosby began playing professionally at the age of eleven. He's come a long way since then! For example, Meredith first saw this seven-piece band in April 1980 for Spring Fling. Then in September 1980, they returned to perform their contemporary tunes, such as Bette Middler's, for Fall Festival. The band also played a number of original tunes, written mostly by Crosby. He says most of his songs are autobiographical, reflecting heartbreaks and emotional ups and downs. Crosby is as talented at composing as the instrumentally talented musicians who surround him. With Crosby as the lead vocalist, Steve White on Piano, Tim McKeever on congas, morrocas, and the guitar, Bobby Fowler on sax and flute, Cary Taylor on bass, and Margie McCrory as female vocalist, the Rob Crosby band was the highlight of Fall Festival.

On October 9, Meredith women were charmed by the total entertainment of Tom Chapin. Singer, songwriter, and actor, Chapin performed some of his bet-ter-known material, such as "Ballad of Willie Sutton," "Crystal Green," "Make a Wish" (theme from the children's program of the same title), and of course, "All My Life's A Circle." The humorous and often touching lyrics, combined with the Tom Chapin smile, provided a night to remember.

Mike Cross, dubbed as "the finest of the young Southern troubadors," entertained Meredith with his unique combination of blues, rock, country, bluegrass, Irish jigs, and mountain fiddle on March 26. He demonstrated his many talents with the mandolin, dulcimer, bagpipes, guitars, banjo, and fiddle. Since he began to work as a solo act in 1972, he had two album successes: "Child Prodigy" in 1976 and "Born in the Country" in 1977. Cross' special combination of downhome humor, talent, and insight provided for enthusiastic audience response and heartfelt appeal.
The Mark Pruette Band was the last band to perform for the 1980-81 school term. Hailing from Asheville, N.C., the band combined knee-slapping square dance and bluegrass music. Composed of four talented musicians, this college touring band provided memorable entertainment on the beautiful Spring Fling afternoon in April.

Carousel

The Meredith College Players presented Rogers and Hammerstein's musical Carouse/ November 13-15, 1980 in Jones Auditorium. Carousel, a bittersweet love story, was highlighted by the inspirational hymn "You'll Never Walk Alone." Other popular songs included in this production were "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," "The Carousel Waltz," and "If I Loved You."
In addition to the music, elaborate settings added to the festive carnival atmosphere of the play. The highlight of the scenery was an elaborate moving carousel. Costuming was also colorful and imaginative.

Over 100 people were involved in the production of Carousel. Many of these people in the cast and crew had studied acting, dancing, or voice and had practical theatrical experience - thus contributing to the professionalism of this entertaining and artistic production.

Meredith students with extensive roles in Carouse/ were Senior Melody Frazier and Junior Dana Warren. Off-campus personnel included Gene Troutman and Brent Wilson. Under the direction of Phyllis Thompson-Busby and Charles Krebs, Carousel was enjoyed by the Meredith community.

Blithe Spirit

Noel Coward's hit farcical comedy Blithe Spirit was presented February 19-21, 1981 in Jones Auditorium by the Meredith College Players. This comedy of three acts was revised into two acts, facilitating the flow of the play. This was the first comedy to be performed at Meredith in three years.

The set consisted of a quaint English drawing-room which was reminiscent of the late 1930's. This set, complete with fireplace and French windows, was the scenery for the whole play. The appearances of ghosts, moving objects, and strange noises were made by sophisticated special effects.

Phyllis Thompson-Busby, director, and Charles Krebs, technical director, led the cast and crew in a successful production. Anna Bess Brown, Dora Weaver, Debbie Dunn, Adelaide Brooks, and Melanie Mabrey each had major roles in the production. Charlie Yankaglu and Jeff Jenkins from the Raleigh Community completed the cast.

Most observers of Blithe Spirit agreed that during the performance, one should expect the unexpected.

Stunt '81

Meredith's tradition of Stunt was held this year on Wednesday, February 25th. The Senior Class won for the third year in a row with their presentation entitled "Camp Idonwannago," a play all about the happenings at a summer camp for kids. The Class of 1981, by winning Stunt three years in a row, retired the Stunt trophy. This is only the second time this has taken place.

The Sophomore Class came in second place with "Who Shot D.R.?," a spoof on the English Department. The juniors presented "A Meredith Odyssey" while the freshmen discovered the excitement of Stunt with "Alice in Dunderland."
Two alumnae, along with Dr. Stewart, Dean Sizemore, and Mrs. Massey, the chief judge, judged the event. Entertainment was provided by Cindy Mays, Lynn Moss, and Patrice Strifert, and the Ensemble.

Toward Conscious Conscience

Toward Conscious Conscience, Meredith's 1981 symposium was co-sponsored by the Student Government Association and the Convocation Committee. The symposium aimed to increase student awareness in many areas of today's life-styles through lectures, discussions, performances, and movies. Highlights of this event included convocation speakers Virginia Carter, Frank Wood, Hedda Sharapan, and Carll Tucker.

Virginia Carter, a graduate of McGill University, served as a research physicist for the Aerospace Corporation until 1973. At that time she joined Tandem Productions and became Vice President for Creative Affairs. She is responsible for supervising many facets of Norman Lear Productions in addition to her public liaison duties. One could say she serves as a "public conscience" for television. Of special interest to psychology majors was a discussion with Dr. Frank Wood, Assistant Professor of Neurology at Bowman Gray School of Medicine. Dr. Wood spoke on the theological and the neurophysical probelms of conscience.

Hedda Sharapan discussed ways to help children develop a psychoiogically healthy conscience. She illustrated her main points with film segments from "Mr. Roger's Neighborhood," a children's story show for which she is Associate Producer. Carll Tucker was the last convocation speaker for the symposium. As Editor of the Saturday Review, he is a sensitive professional journalist, and he discussed the problems that develop between commerce and conscience.

Sessions that touched nearly every aspect of American life - from gender roles to "nutritionally consciousconscience" to journalism to morality offered students an opportunity to discuss conscience-raising attidues with area professors and businessmen. These professionals included Visiting Kenan Professor Peter S. Fernald; representative from the Department of Human Resources Jim Burns; Kate B. Garner, the President of the National Council of Family Relations; Robert Abernathy, a Raleigh jazz musician; Isabella Cannon, former Raleigh Mayor; Mary Vance Trent, Woodrow Wilsone Fellow; John L. Nichols, composer, performer, and artist; Waltye Rasulala, Director of Public Affairs and host of "Aware," WRAL-TV; and Steve Shoemaker, Presbyterian Campus Minister, NCSU. Sponsored by the various departments and organizations at Meredith, each speaker helped students to discover new attitudes and a greater understanding of current problems and issues. Symposium ' 81 was an enlightening and con-scious-raising event for all who participated.

It's Playday

The one day when college students and professors can forget studying and work and enjoy a couple of hours of nothing but fun is none other than Playday. All of the departments at Meredith compete against each other to be the champions of this fun afternoon. Both students and teachers participate in relays of all kinds such as three-legged races and hula-hooping. The winners of the 1981 Playday were the Education Department in first place and the Business Department in second place. A Duke and Duchess were also crowned at the Playday festival. This year's recipients were Dr. Joe Browde and Dr. Mary Johnson, both of the Education Department. The afternoon of fun and games was topped off with a delicious picnic of hamburgers and foot long hotdogs.

Let's Have Fun At Spring Fling!

Want to break up the monotony of studying and enjoy an afternoon of fun and relaxation? If you missed Spring Fling on April 25, 1981, you missed your chance! Although N.C. State sponsored Zoo Day at the same time, many Meredith students and their friends came down to the Lake for the festivities.
Spring Fling t-shirts were sold in advance, as well as during the event. The Mark Pruette Band from Asheville, N.C provided music for square dancing, hula hooping, and just plain listening. Food was readily available (for a price) from participating clubs and residence halls. Popcorn, sno cones, and baked goods were on the menu. At a cake walk students took a chance on winning a cake!
The Mello Yello people were there equipped with plenty of Meilo-Yello and prizes for the winners of the various chugging contests being held. An addition, various faculty members donated themselves as targets for whipped cream pies. There was also a clown from the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus making up faces and doing some entertaining on the Island. Canoes and paddles were available for a trip around the Lake. For landubbers, a horse and buggy took interested students for rides. Craftsmen from the Raleigh area set up displays and sold items.

This was the second annual Spring Fling held at Meredith. It was sponsored by residence Hall Board, and many other organizations like College Center Association and Meredith Recreation Association contributed to its success.

Class Day

Class Day is always a time of joy and of sadness. Seniors and sophomores remember special times in their lives at Meredith. The Senior Class looks back on the last four years in celebration of its achievements and in sadness for its completion. Class Day for the seniors of 1981 was no exception!
With each senior wearing a white dress and a black glove, the Class of 1981 filed into the Ampitheater. The Class of 1983 followed with the traditional daisy chain on which they had worked. The two classes enjoyed singing Big Sister-Little Sister songs back and forth to each other.

Under the direction of Class President Jackie Revels, seniors not only recalled moments of the past, but they recreated them! A re-run of the Oil of Olay commercial from the 1979 Stunt, and singing the song Cate City from the 1980 Stunt were included. Each senior received a copy of the class history as Seniors Tammy Cherry and Gayle Nichols read it aloud. The class doll wearing Calvin Klein jeans and a lavendar sweater was also displayed.

It's May - Time For Graduation

Meredith's Graduation Exercises were held on Sunday, May 17, 1981 at 10:00 a.m. Since the weather was nice the exercises were held in the Mclver Ampitheater. From the Class of 1981, 320 students received their degrees. From these graduates six graduated summa cum laude (3.9), 17 graduated magna cum laude (3.6), and 81 graduated cum laude (3.2).

The Commencement Program began with the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" and a welcome from President John Weems. After a hymn, Dr. Roger Crook gave the scripture and prayer. The Chorale presented an anthem, and Outstanding Teachers and Distinguished Meredith Alumnae were recognized. Dr. William J. Bennett, President and Director of the National Humanities Center, gave the Baccalaureate Address - "The Difference Disposition Makes." Dr. Bennett emphasized the importance of being good-humored about one morality. He also explained that work brings more joy and pleasure than does leisure. Dr. Bennett challenged the graduates to forget what the dampers say and join in common enterprises. He revealed that happiness does not come from being sought; it is a by-product of the search for other things.
The degrees were conferred by Dean Allen Burris, and the graduates were presented their diplomas by President Weems. The graduates were also presented Bibles by Seby Jones, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Jackie Revels, Senior Class President, voiced a farewell from the graduates. President Weems then challenged the graduates. After the Alma Mater and a benediction by Dr. Crook, the program was completed.

After the commencement ceremony graduates, parents, and faculty attended a buffet luncheon in Belk Dining Hall. This luncheon gave graduates the chance to say goodbye to one another and wish each other well.

Sports: What It Takes To Be An Athlete

It takes a lot to be an athlete. Aside from having the sheer talent necessary to participate in sports, an athlete must make great sacrifices. For instance, how would you like missing an exciting episode of General Hospital or The Guiding Light because you have to go to practice not once a week, but everyday mind you? And think of all the time athletes spend in the shower! (Who wants to be hot and sweaty after practice?) Or how about missing all the beauty sleep to stay up those long nights after an away game to finish that paper you hadn't quite started? Then there's the physical abuse an athlete must endure. She must torture herself er condition herself so that she's in shape for the season. (All those laps must have done some good!) Blisters, bruises, sprains, and especially sore muscles are all a way of life for the athlete. Speaking of sore muscles, have you ever wondered why some women went down the stairs backwards? Conditioning? No way: it's less painful! Of course there is also a certain amount of mental abuse like wondering whether or not you're going to pass that class because you've neglected your homework to perfect your free throw or backhand. Or how about those times you didn't quite do what the coach had in mind, and he/she lets you know about it in no uncertain terms?

But seriously, an athlete is an extraordinary person because she must be able to discipline herself in many ways. To be a really good athlete, it takes "endurance, conditioning, perserverance, talent, a love of sports, the competitive edge, and especially the desire to win." An athlete must learn to budget her time wisely, which means sacrificing certain things in order to keep up with assignments and manage a two-hour practice daily. Furthurmore, many special friendships develop through being a member of a team and participating in intercollegiate athletics. While an athlete's thoughts are primarily on winning the game, in the back of her mind she must remember that she is a representative of her school and that she is expected to represent it well. But you know, with all this hard work, pressure, and effort, I bet somewhere along the way that an athlete has a little fun!

Being an athlete involves a lot more than just practicing, it means making sacrifices only a true athlete is willing to make.

What's A 2-1-2?

The 1980-81 Meredith Basketball team, co-captained by teammates Sharon Sawyer and Alisa Robertson, ended its season with an overall record of 5-12, and a Division III record of 1-11. While these statistics may not seem very impressive, Coach Marie Chamblee feels that "overall the season record does not reflect the competitive play; many of the games were close games where the outcome was not decided till the last five minutes. In fact, five games were decided in the final seconds of the game." Even though the team possessed greater depth than before, they were troubled by poor shooting. Two of the players averaged over $30 \%$ for the season and only freshman center Clare Lynn Brock, who was voted most valuable player by her teammates, shot over $40 \%$. Brock led the team in scoring - averaging 17.5 points per game, rebounding - averaging 9 rebounds per game, and free throws. She was also second high in steals for the team. Along with Brock, junior Alisa Robertson was commended for her outstanding play. Robertson followed Brock in scoring averaging 14 points per game and rebounding - averaging 7 per game. Defensively, junior Dabney Chakales, playing for her second year, "was a tremendous asset to the team, coming on very strong at the last half of the season" according to Ms. Chamblee.

As with the volleyball team, inexperience was a problem for the Angels. The only senior, Helena Flannagan, who served as the team's floor leader, graduated in December while five freshmen joined the returning members. Ms. Chamblee believes that "the outlook for the next year is promising since the entire team can return next year and they will have this year's experience behind them." Thus she anticipates a competitive and successful season for her team next year.

Teeing Off . . . At The Nationals!!!

The Meredith Golf team celebrated its best year yet by winning the NCAIAW State Championship at Pinehurst, finishing in second place in the Southern Region II Regional Champions and gaining a bid to the AIAW Division III National Championships to be played June 17-20 in Sioux City, lowa. Meredith also captured second place finishes in the Longwood College Spring Invitational, and the William and Mary Invitational played on the tough Kingsmill on the James Course in Williamsburg, VA. The Golf team also soundly defeated St. Mary's College in a two team match, finished tenth in the Lady Blue Ridge Invitational in Boone, N.C., fourth in the Lady Deacon Invitational in Winston-Salem tenth in the Duke Fall Invitational, twenty-eighth in the Lady Tar Heel and seventeenth in the Duke Spring Invitational. Luann Johnson was named most valuable player and Susan Wrenn was awarded most improved. Coach Fred Thompson is very pleased with the way the team has progressed. To be the first athletic team from Meredith to receive a bid to the National Championship is outstanding. Coach Thompson further notes that this year's team has shown a great amount of teamwork.

Angels' Have A Smashing Season!

The 1980-81 Meredith Netters had a very successful season this year. In the fall, the team posted a record of 3-3, having one match cancelled due to rain. During the fall, the tennis team was invited to the Eastern Collegiate Invitational Tournament in Fayetteville where the Angels won first place. Manning Winslow, Lynn Hurt, Alisa Robertson, Jean Stroud, and Jean Lancaster each finished first in their respective divisions in singles play. The spectacular doubles play of Winslow and Lancaster, Robertson and Hurt, and Perry and Stroud resulted in first place rankings for each team in their respective seeds.

The Angels kept the ball bouncing throughout the spring season, finishing with a record of 7-2. The team later captured second place in the state tournament at Salem College. Aside from the fact that the team got some "real tough draws," Coach Jay Massey felt that they played well. Several players advanced to the semi-finals while Manning Winslow and Jean Lancaster took first place in their doubles competition. As a result of their success in the tournament, the Angels received a bid to the Regionals in Kentucky.
Overall Mrs. Massey was extremely pleased by the Angels' performance throughout the year and is even more excited about next year's team. "We don't lose anybody, and we will have more experience next year." Thus, she expects the Angels to be more competitive as they take to the courts next season!

Mrs. Massey sends Alisa to pick up all those "moon balls" that she hits.

Volleyball Fever - Pass It On

The 1980 Meredith Volleyball team, led by co-captains Fay Bryant and Joy Rose, finished its season with an overall record of $9-13$, while its Division III conference record stood at 6-8. Freshman Lynn Ward, who was appointed to the AllDivision III first team, was voted Most Valuable Player by her teammates. According to coach Marie Chamblee, Ward, whom she felt was the most consistent player on the team, "has the potential for developing into an outstanding power spiker." Joining honors with Ward was junior setter Sharon Sawyer who was selected as a member of the All-Division III second team. While various players excelled in different aspects of the sport, Lynn Ward and junior Judy Andrews contributed greatly to team effort by being the most consistent servers.
While under the guidance of coach Chamblee the Angels displayed excellent potential throughout the course of the season; however, they were plagued from game to game within matches with inconsistency. Coach Chamblee felt that inconsistency "was the major weakness of the team as a whole; this was due partially to the inexperience of the team." The Volleyball team had five freshmen and no seniors. Thus she expects next year's team to further develop its potential and gain momentum, making the Angels much more competitive next season. With the core of the team returning to the court next year, the outlook for a successful season is growing.

Angels, reach for the sky!

Who's On First? What's On Second?

The 1981 Meredith Softball Team, captained by Senior Darla Stephenson (who was also voted the most valuable player by her teammates) ended its season with an overall record of 9-15. Even though the team did not have a winning season, they did have some excellent play. The team exhibited their potential and endurance in several games which led to extra innings. The Angels also traveled to Lynchburg, Virginia where they participated in a round-robin invitational tournament. The team finished the tournament with a split record of 2-2; losing to Virginia Wesleyan and Southern Seminary, while defeating Randolph Macon Women's College and Lynchburg College. Assistant coach Marie Chamblee felt that even though Randolph Macon was a weak contender, the Angels' romp over them 23-1 was Meredith's best game throughout the tournament. While Meredith played virtually errorless that game, Randolph Macon compounded their errors leading to an easy victory for the Angels. Freshman Jil Humberger hit 4 for 4 during the game. In other games in the tournament, freshmen Grace Akers and Lori Coleman also hit well.
Yet the team had its share of frustrations. Dr. John "Jack" Huber, coach of the Angels, attributes this to the steady tumover of players. He feels that "the key to a better season would be less turnover. It seems to me that many of the teams at Meredith have players that participate for only a year or two. Thus, a coach must spend a great deal of time finding the correct combination of athletes" in order to achieve the ultimate ... a successful team with a winning season. This was especially true this year. The Angels had eight freshmen join the five returning players. Dr. Huber believes that the team "will be more competitive next year if the nucleus of our team returns and if we add two or three good freshman players."

Angel Jil Humberger breezes home for the run.

Coaching - It's A Way Of Life

While intercollegiate athletics remain a small part of Meredith life, it could not exist without the dedication and hardwork of a special group of people ... the coaches. Long hours - days, nights, and weekends, intense planning, hectic schedules, and frustrating seasons make up a large part of a coach's life that many people fail to recognize. Thus, the 1980-81 Oak Leaves would like to thank the following coaches for making participation in athletics at Meredith College possible.

Tennis Coach

On a given week day, you could walk down to Weatherspoon Gym and find Mrs. Jay Massey busy working behind her paper-stacked desk. "Lord, l've taught for a 1000 years, just about!" After attending UNC-G for 2 years, Mrs. Massey transfered to Meredith, where she graduated. She completed her graduate study at New York University. Mrs. Massey has coached tennis at the prep school level as well as the college level at such schools as Duke, Georgia State College for women, and Meredith.

Mrs. Massey thinks one of the most satisfying results of coaching is seeing improvement in her players. "As a coach you get to know the girls on the team; you become close to the girls you work with because you see them everyday not just one or two times a week. It's very rewarding as a coach to get to know the girls and hopefully have some positive influence on them." Coaching becomes hard for Mrs. Massey when a player's bad attitude influences the team. "If they play well and it's a good match and they still lose, it doesn't matter; but if they don't play up to their potential and lose, it gets hard, but you learn to take it in stride." Mrs. Massey has enjoyed and succeeded in her coaching career. She takes pride in seeing other people enjoy and improve in the sport she loves so much.

Golf Coach Fred Thompson

Fred Thompson, director of Central Services at Meredith, has served as the Angels' Golf Coach for four years. Coach Thompson's avid interest in golf developed early during his high school career and led him to play golf for Grimsley High School. Following high school Thompson attended North Carolina State University, where he also played golf.
Under the supervision of Coach Thompson, the golf team has done exceptionally well, claiming both statewide recognition and the opportunity to advance to the Nationals. When asked why he coaches, Thompson replied, "I enjoy the challenge of molding five girls into a team that can represent Meredith well." And Fred Thompson has done just that.

Volleyball & Basketball Coach - Marie Chamblee

Marie Chamblee who has been a member of the Meredith faculty for four years has served as head basketball coach for four years, assistant volleyball coach for one year and has currently completed her third year as head coach, and as assistant softball coach for four years. In addition to coaching, Ms. Chamblee teaches several activity courses, as well as two healthrealted classes.

Ms. Chamblee, who completed her undergraduate requirements at East Carolina University (1972-1976), double majored in Health and Physical Education and Mathematics. While at ECU, she played volleyball for 4 years, serving as the setter and a spiker. She also played guard for the Lady Pirates basketball team for 4 years. Furthermore, Ms. Chamblee has played first base for Burrage Music, a Raleigh recreational softball team, for 9 years. After graduation, Ms. chamblee secured her masters degree in Physical Education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1977. She is currently pursuing her doctorate in Education at Chapel Hill also. Coaching is an extrememly demanding profession; however, Ms. Chamblee justifies her dedication by saying "I love sports especially team sports." Having been a member of several teams herself, Ms. Chamblee feels that there is a certain closeness between team members and a coach that cannot be explained, but only experienced. Furthermore, the playercoach relationship remains a unique one in itself. As a coach Ms. Chamblee feels "it is very rewarding to see an individual player you have helped improve their skills and attitudes as well as develop as team players." While Ms. Chamblee knows that coaching can be very frustrating, she feels one reward that makes her profession worthwhile is "to see a team develop to the point of playing as a complete unit. When everyone works together as a team, playing with tremendous intensity and excitement, it is a very rewarding and satisfying experience to the coach and the players, too."

Softball Coach Jack Huber

Dr. John "Doc" Huber, associate professor of psychology, has coached softball at Meredith for seven years and has been the assistant tennis coach for seven years also. Dr. Huber attended Kent State University before going on to the University of Vermont where he received his masters degree. He then completed his doctorate at the University of New Hampshire.

Dr. Huber has actively participated in various sports. For instance, he played hockey for a year at Skidmore College and has played on several baseball and softball teams. Besides coaching at Meredith, Dr. Huber has served as softball coach for the city of Cleveland. While in Ohio he was also the physical educator for children in an orthopedic hospital in Eyeing the bench, Dr. Huber wonders which of his players has "misplaced" his "Red Man."

Cleveland. Since he has been in Raleigh, he has coached tennis and swimming at several country clubs.

When asked exactly why he coaches, Dr. Huber replied, "I coach because I like games, sports, people, and the outdoors." He believes that the purpose of games is to have fun. What's more "if a game is played correctly the coach has fun also. However, if ego and the need to win become excessive, no one has fun, including the coach." Furthermore, a lot of people do not realize the impact of an athletic program on the public. According to Dr. Huber, "coaches and athletes are on the line, because they are highly visible representatives of the college."

In Appreciation

The production of this yearbook would not have been possible without all of the help I received. Each staff member should be congratulated for her contributions. In addition to the staff, other people lent their support to the 1981 Oak Leaves. Joe Allegood, our representative from Hunter Publishing Company, answered many questions and gave me much guidance. Bob Bedingfield provided me with several beautiful color prints, including the aerial photo of Meredith, and his father Clayton Bedingfield made that aerial photo possible. Betty Emery took care of the secretarial duties during the student portraits. Mary Lynn Hinsley helped me proof a great deal of the yearbook, and then she did the rest by herself. I'd like to thank my parents Jane and Bill Kibler for their support and encouragement this year. Bill Norton, the Oak Leaves advisor, provided me with many photos and much technical advice. Pat Quick of Information Services provided me with news releases, and encouragement. Ed Ralicki of Yearbook Associates worked with me on the scheduling of photographers to be on the Meredith Campus. Patrice Strifert gave me much advice and support, and she constantly reminded me of the importance of student publications on campus. My suite (Lynda Smith, Lisa Sorrels, Judy Andrews, and Susan Bishop) had to put up with many inconveniences - phone calls galore and layout sheets all over the room - and I appreciate their willingness to put with that.
